ABOUT PGIMER

The Postgraduate Institute of Medical Education and Research (PGIMER) was established in 1962, inspired by Sardar Partap Singh Kairon and supported by Prime Minister Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru, who inaugurated the Nehru Hospital in 1963. Initially under the Punjab government, it came under the Union Territory of Chandigarh after state reorganization in 1966. In 1967, PGIMER became an autonomous institute under the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India.

ABOUT CONFERENCE

The conference will focus on Human Health and Environmental Safety, serving as a platform for scientific exchange on toxicological research, risk assessment, and innovative methodologies. It aims to foster collaboration among researchers, regulators, and industry, with an emphasis on integrating toxicology into public health policy and environmental protection to support evidence-based decisions and safeguard health and ecosystems.

ABOUT STOX

The Society of Toxicology (STOX) India, was founded in the year 1979 at CSIR-Indian Institute of Toxicology Research, the erstwhile Industrial Toxicology Research Centre, Lucknow to facilitate the exchange of Scientific ideas information, knowledge among scientists, practitioners, professional and policymakers. The society is one of the founder members of International Union of Toxicology.

ABOUT CHANDIGARH

Chandigarh is a unique city in India, known for its modern architecture, urban planning, and as the capital of both Punjab and Haryana. Chandigarh is a city and union territory in northern India, located at the foothills of the Shivalik range of the Himalayas. It serves as the shared capital of the states of Punjab and Haryana and is approximately 265 km north of New Delhi. The city is renowned for its well-planned layout and is one of the earliest planned cities in post-independence India, designed by the famous architect Le Corbusier.
